BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY
Boston Folk Join Winter Colony in South Carolina

The dances which are held throughout the season by Boston's exclusive (Hundred) Club number among the smartest dancing affairs of the season. Among the guests at the last of these dances was Miss Betty De Groat of New York, who is visiting in Boston.

MISS BETTY DE GROAT

By BETTY ALDEN.
THE Winter colony at Camden, S. C., is increasing daily, while members of the smart set are arriving at the resort from Boston, New York and Philadelphia. A goodly number have taken cottages for the season, while others have registered at one of the three large hotels, the Kirkwood, Holbrook and the Court Inn.

Polo continues to form the most popular and lively sport at the resort. At a recent game between the Blues and the Whites several good points were shown, a large number of winter colonists turning out for the occasion.

The practice polo field is being put in good shape, the race track made ready, and the golf courses already well patronized, thus everything points to a sparkling season for sport-lovers. A few days ago a drag hunt was held, a run of about five miles over varied going, the Misses Tishner, Mrs. Pomeroy and Mrs. Robinson fulfilling among the first.

Among the events of the week was the bridge given by Mrs. Clarence Morgan, who, with Mr. Morgan, has taken a cottage for the winter. It will be remembered that Miss Mary Morgan, the daughter of the Clarence Morgans—who are of New York and Shelburne, Vt.—was married last summer to Thomas Prince Bond, Jr., of Boston, their wedding being one of the most widely publicized ceremonies of the entire year. The wedding took place at the summer home of the bride's parents at Shelburne, Vt., and drew a host of the most prominent members of Boston and Gotham society as guests. The young couple are now making their home on Lawrence road, Chestnut Hill.

Other winter cottagers at Camden include Mrs. Frederick Proctor of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Orban, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pomeroy of Buffalo, Mr. Frederick Robinson of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Courtenay of Brookridge, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Glueck and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Junior of Southport, Ct.

A group of South Carolina, a number of Bostonians are wintering at Aiken, another popular resort of this State. Among the Bostonians there are Mrs. John Bond Post and Miss Mary L. Post of Marlboro street, who spent the month of December at Gray House, in Lenox. On their trip South they were joined for a portion of the

There are two large affairs planned for the next future in aid of college endowment funds. One of these is the skating carnival for the benefit of the Isabella fund, which takes place at the Arena on Jan. 15, offering something a little different in the way of benefit functions. Another is the concert, also for the benefit of the Isabella fund, which will be given the following evening, Jan. 16, at Symphony Hall to help swell the Simmons College endowment campaign. Invitations to subscribe to the latter affair are being sent out daily. Frits Krouner, the noted violinist, is to be the soloist.

The two centre sections of the hall have been reserved to be sold for the benefit of the college in the Penway. Tickets, at $5.00 each, may be had on application to Mrs. Alexander Henderson, No. 49 Woodland road, Chestnut Hill. A check, payable to Carrie N. Nickerson, should be sent with subscriptions.

Random Notes of Society
Folk in Town and Country

Mrs. JAMES LOWELL PUTNAM of New York, but formerly of Boston and well known in the city's social circles, was among the guests at a luncheon given at the Hotel St. Regis by Mrs. Adolf Pavenset.

Among the guests at the Everglades Club Palm Beach was Harold S. Vanderbilt of New York, who gave a theatre party the same evening. Also on the links were Fulton Oustling of New York, Alfred Hart and Emory Goodwin of Boston, all house guests of Mr. Vanderbilt, who has opened his villa on the ocean boulevard for a brief stay.

During Mrs. Clara Sheridan's visit to Boston she is coming here to spend tomorrow evening for the benefit of the Russian Relief Fund, she will be entertained by Mrs. Ernest Amory Codman of No. 227 Beacon street. Mrs. Sheridan, a noted sculptress, is the niece of Winston Churchill. She spent quite a while in Russia, where she made busts of both Lenin and Trotsky.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Brister Draper recently opened their country place, "The Crossways" in Hopkinton, for a brief stay, over the holidays. Draper carried out her usual plan of playing Santa Claus to 400 school children, later providing a special motion picture show for them.

SIMMONS COLLEGE

GIRL TO WEB TECH MAN

Miss Margaret Gallagher, Simmons College, 22, has announced her engagement to Walter E. Biddle of New Castle, Pa. Miss Gallagher, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Herbert Gallagher of Amherst, is a member of the senior class at Simmons and president of the class. Biddle is a member of the class of 1921 of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Delta Upsilon fraternity and of the Price and Curlew Society.

PUPILS TO HELP CONDUCT OWN CLASSES

Junior High School Students Will Give Demonstration of B. U. Project

Under the auspices of the Boston University School of Education, a demonstration of the party socialized recreation in the Junior High School in which the children have a large part in conducting their own classes will be shown in Jacob Steeper Hall Saturday morning.

The demonstration will be under the direction of Miss Edith M. Burbank, the teacher of the class, and George M. Lusk, the principal of the school.

Mr. Lusk graduated from Boston University in 1913, and has made a specialty of developing class work in which the children themselves take active part and which carries through a definite project. This project is constantly held before the minds of the teacher and pupil alike.

A class beginning in French, composed of twenty-five pupils from the Junior High School at Wellesley Hills, will participate. The class will be conducted in the direct or conversational method.

The meeting is open to the general public and a large number of teachers from various parts of New England have signified their interest in the demonstration.

REVERE WOMAN HURT

WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Miss Winnie Strang, fifty-six years old, of No. 215 Winthrop avenue, Revere, was struck by an automobile at the corner of Water and Kilby streets and was treated at the Revere Hospital for scalp lacerations. The car was operated, according to the police, by J. J. Cardella, of No. 25 Dudley street, Southbury.

Linen dresses for the South cast shadows of coming fashions

HAND-DRAWN linen dresses from France are the aristocrats of southern daytime dresses—and as southern fashion determines summer fashions, we predict wide popularity for the lovely coolness of linen.

Thus you may gain lovely service from the lovely linen dresses ready now for your southern trip. The French Shops have a veritable flower garden of French linen dresses, hand made and hand drawn, at $35, one of which is sketched. The Women's Dress Shop has some new linen crash dresses with a lower waistline, $25. In the French Shops, handmade voile and handkerchief linen dresses, $25.

COLUMBIA'S BLIND CHECKER WIZARD TO PLAY 20 AT ONE SITTING

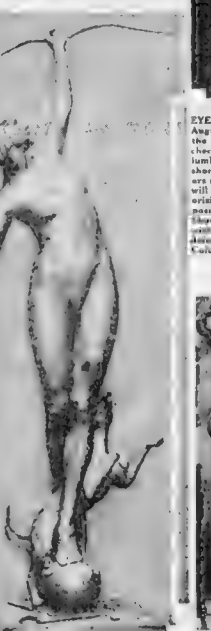

MISS CHARL O. WILLIAMS of Memphis, Tenn., newly elected president of the National Education Association of the United States, who is an ardent suffragist and active political worker. She is now superintendent of a Memphis school has held nearly every office in organization. (Keyline.)

MISS REBE JOHNSON of Chicago, who in 1920 lowered the world's sprint records for women in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, is shown here limbering up at Lake Placid, N. Y., preparatory for another crack at the titles. Her time for the century was 12.45. (Underwood.)

HERE'S a Good (propose!) Miss! Madge Morris, queen of the New York beaches, went down by the sea waves, with the weather at zero, to walk Father Neptune a Merry New Year. Even the fishes were glad to see her. There were no poor fish around. Peppy, she says, told her it was going to be a tough swim on the blind. (Keyline.)

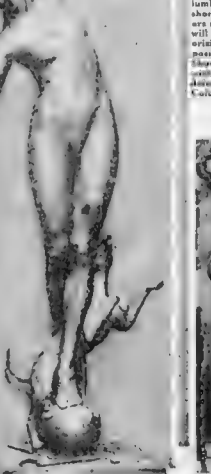

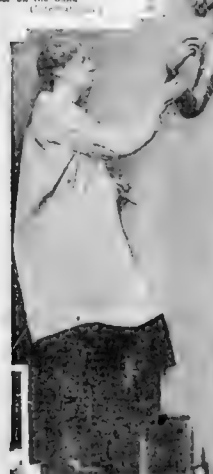

CHIN STRAPS are usually confined to one's boudoir, but here is one that Missy calls fashionable. Made of light jade and ivory, set together in a charming chain effect. (Wide World.)

AN EYEFUL at the Races! Here is what Fern calls smart: High scalloped collar and a long hanging pocket, together with the pointed sleeves, make the garment novel, if nothing else. (International.)

LA PALOMA! Sonora Maria Estanislao Uribe, who has won pretty girl contests in Mexico, has now been chosen the national beauty. She is shown here in a costume of flowers of Mexico City. Her charm and comeliness is essentially that of the country. (A. de World.)

EYES THAT TOUCH! Augustus Meiss (on the right), blind checker, married at Columbia University, will shortly play 20 play ers at one sitting. This will require the maneuvering of 480 checker positions at one time. Shows here in costume with the famous blind checker at corners at Columbia. (International.)

THE "NEW ART" in Germany. The Teutons have become so practical since the war they are now converting their street signs into advertisements, as pictured at the right. An improvement on the ugly billboard. (C.)

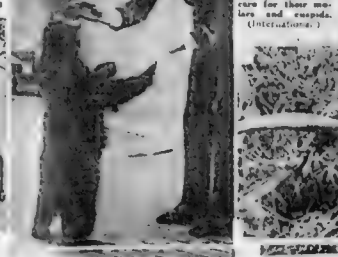

EMUCATING THEIR "BITES"! Soviet Russia has overlooked the fact that the care of the teeth is necessary to good citizenship, and so has established dental hygiene clinics to educate the masses how to clean and cure for their mouths and ears. (International.)

YOU STILL HAVE A CHANCE TO WIN! Miss Ruth E. Hill, 327 Laurel Hill Ave., is one of the youngest to win an award in the Pretty Motorist Test. A check for $5 will be mailed to her address photographs to Pictorial Editor, Boston American. Pictures must be clear.

TRAILING ALONG WITH MASTER! This new and novel horse box trailer was designed with a view to providing hunting men and owners of race horses an easy, inexpensive and ready means of transporting their horses about the country without being in the animals and without the danger, trouble and expense incidental to their conveyance by rail. It also permits horsemen to keep a secret the so-called "dark horse" until just before the race, saving the horse exposure to critical eyes at the station. It is easily handled by most any type of car. (Wide World.)

"PRUNES YOSEMITE" is a fat, rollicking little cinnamon bear that muscets for the battleship California, flagship of the Pacific fleet. He was brought aboard young and then brought up as the bottle. A great playfellow of the sailors. (Underwood.)

BOSTON AMERICAN

PLAN LANDIS PETITION TO SAVE REMNANT OF RED SOX

The first fan who wrote in his views on matters Red Sox said a whole mouthful. He suggests nothing more nor less than a fan petition to Judge Landis to rescue the American League situation here in Boston.

How Can Red Sox Be Saved for Boston?

Boston fans have their own ideas about the Red Sox. Some think Owner Frazee has completely wrecked the team. Others believe there is still hope of rebuilding a ball club from the ruins.

The American League situation is a big thing in sports here just now. A consensus of fan opinion would do more to help out the troubles than anything else. Harsh, but restricted, criticism hasn't helped much. A real show-down of sentiment might.

Write your ideas on the matter in the sports editor. If you think the recent trades, including the one involving Frazee, are a disaster, say so. Address letters to Sports Editor, Boston American, 100 Summer Street. All letters will be published.

anybody would make a championship team today. Who could help it? The Sox have a lot of talent. But they don't do anything. The American League will be smashed. And it seems to me it should be part of his job to see that that does not happen.

The papers generally have tried to make Frazee out as a bad man. But it isn't worth it.

I believe we could do more by signing a petition to Commissioner Landis demanding that he take some action to make the Red Sox a baseball team again, and not just a soft soap, where there can be no hope of a real club effort except money.

WHITE AGAINST RED

JANUARY 16

Fans Club Matches Charley and Johnny for a Ten Round Contest

Charley White, of Chicago, who is a very much known boxer, has been matched to fight against Johnny White, of Boston, in a ten round contest. The fight will take place at the Boston Athletic Club on January 16.

The fans club expects an overflow crowd at the match in the event that it will take place at the Boston Athletic Club.

Leonard White has a wholesome respect for Charley's skill, but he would not allow the Chicago fighter to be a favorite. He is a very much known boxer, and he is a very much known boxer.

White is the most wonderful back in the prize ring. He dropped out of the game a year ago, but his return has shown the same wonderful light in the prize ring.

Many experts agree that Leonard is a very much known boxer, and he is a very much known boxer.

CAMBRIDGE LATIN WINS FROM BROOKLINE

Brookline High and Cambridge Latin won the schoolboy hockey season at the Arena yesterday with the latter emerging a winner, one goal to nothing. The playing of both teams was a surprise to the followers of the sport who were amazed at the speed and starting power displayed on each.

Both teams were evenly matched. Cambridge had an edge with "Huber" Chert in the lineup. Time and again he created the Brookline first defense and made many shots at the net. Goalkeeper Kelly of Brookline was "there" with the stick, and stopped many of the Cambridge shots.

Brookline was much in evidence with the puck, giving the Cambridge team some play. In the third period Fleming, playing a wing position, made a bid of a shot from a difficult angle, which was stopped within inches of the net by Smith, the Cambridge goal tender.

Orndorff played a splendid game for Cambridge, being always in the net.

Neither team displayed team work. Individual play was indulged in by players of both teams.

Coach Canham played all on his own. Muldowney covered himself with glory on the defense. Brookline was much in evidence before they got within scoring distance.

Net a foul was registered by other team in the three consecutive periods. Pierce Fitzgerald gave a good account of himself in playing right defense.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By A. C. FORBES

New York, Jan. 3.—"Next to doing the right thing, the most important thing in the world is to let people know you are doing the right thing," was the sage observation made by the richest man in the world—although, unfortunately, he is not so rich now as he once was.

Learn this truth until it is in life. This column recently contained comments upon the place of the nation's credit in the world.

Without questioning any of the facts then given, some of the more modern public utility leaders, men of a different stamp from the franchise-grabbers and lotteries of yesterday, but busy to show that to many communities hared and a new era of financing has been placed to understanding, frankness and friendly co-operation.

All of us who are normally contented would rather have good than evil about any time and every time. The facts gathered by the public utility men of the school of public utility men for presentation in this column will therefore be read with pleasure and satisfaction. The facts submitted are, indeed, quite satisfying.

Read this exhibition given in January of last year, which was given by President P. H. Gaden of the American Electric Railway Association.

"The best way to bring about understanding is to be frank and to be honest."

Frankness must go hand in hand with advertising. It is not enough to talk. Therefore, be prepared, when the public is to be told the truth about your business to everyone.

Every man desires good electric light, gas, heat, telephone and telegraph service, and he will help you give it to him if you can show him that his help is needed to accomplish this very desirable end.

There's clean, straightforward, emphasis, isn't it?

That of the result just what has been accomplished along such lines?

A recent census of the electric companies are now making transactions in various forms—newspapers, radio, and other public utility companies—to tell their story to the public. It was always true that it has become the right rather than the exception for managers of local public utility companies to appear frequently before the public audience to discuss public utility problems.

And to answer questions anyone came to ask. These men are not political hangers-on, but well-meaning "yellow dog" funds, not franchise grabbers. They are honest, they are of the new school, upstanding, clean, out, energetic men of vision and foresight.

I asked the American Electric Railway Association to prepare for the readers of this column a brief statement on what has been done in our large cities, outside of New York—where, thanks chiefly to that financial genius, Charles D. Jones, still is lamentable condition.

Are not these facts arguments for re-orientation and encouragement?

In Boston, under Edward Dana, traction affairs are being fairly and honestly conducted under the management of the Boston Traction Company, which controls a very large part of the traction companies in New England outside of Boston.

At its head, Mr. Dana, who is not a New Yorker, but a native of this city, to talk openly to the smallest group of individuals that have any traction facts. Frankness has won confidence for Thomas F. Mitten in Philadelphia. Baltimore, Indiana, traction service as managed by C. L. Edwards. Pittsburgh, after years of trouble, recently amicably reached a service-cooperation agreement. Other cities in which understanding has been reached and service-cooperation agreements installed are Cleveland, Cincinnati, Memphis, St. Louis, Columbus, Youngstown, Toledo and Rochester.

P. B. Arterbury, of Atlanta, head of the Georgia Railway & Power Company, has the confidence of his shareholders and frequently appears before laboring men, business men, bankers, real estate dealers and others to explain traction matters. Louisville traction affairs rapidly are being brought out of the shadows. James P. Harney, a business thinker who moves his public in the open. In Detroit, co-operation agreement has been worked out between the municipal and privately owned lines to that both are using the same tracks in some cases. Baltimore is getting excellent service under H. G. Tulley, who was trained by Mitten in Philadelphia.

*A fare issue, which is largely on foot, because the situation in Chicago, but that and bonds are not mentioned. In Minneapolis and St. Paul, Horace Leroy, head of the Twin City lines, is dealing openly with his riders. The St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver lines are in receivership, but the managements are getting public credit by discussing their problems openly. The Pacific coast, once rocked by traction scandals, is getting good service and understanding through Chicago group, in charge of the Union Pacific Electric properties. William von Pohl, in San Francisco, and Franklin T. Griffith, in Portland.

The Truth Sets You Free

And Truth Is Found in Good Books, Freedom Also.
Copyright, 1921, Star Company

A reader belonging to the Bond Men's Club of Detroit writes, "Please send a list of books that you recommend." Similar requests are often received.

Here is a cartoon, intended to show man's condition, bound to the earth by ignorance and fear. Something about books follows.

"Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Man progresses. He was a poor, shivering creature on this earth a hundred thousand years ago, afraid of wind that roared through his cave, calling it a devil; afraid of lightning that flashed in the sky, imagining that a supreme God was trying to hit his poor little carcass. That same lightning, the electric spark, man uses inside the engine of the flying machine that carries him through clouds where lightning flashes. He knows scientific truth and that makes him free of superstition and free to ride through the air.

Many readers say "tell us what to read, since you so often speak of good books."

First you want to know what and where this earth is on which you live. Read a good, simple book on astronomy. Flammarion's Astronomy is good. So is Ball's "Story of the Heavens."

It is a good idea to read several books at once, for each book opens up a new part of the mind.

While you are reading your astronomy read a good, simple up-to-date book on geology; get one recently written. Your librarian or book dealer will recommend one. This geology will tell you what has happened to the earth during the hundreds of millions of years that it has been spinning around the sun.

Then read a book on evolution, about the development of animal life on the earth, and how you have gradually arisen to an erect position, and learned to study the stars instead of studying ways to kill and eat your neighbor. Wallace's book on Darwinism is good.

After you understand something about the universe in which you live, read a book on psychology and learn something about yourself, how it becomes possible for your brain to see and understand the world around you and the distant sun. Professor James has written an admirable book on psychology. Get it.

Then get a history of philosophy, which means the history of human thought and abstract speculation.

Philosophy represents the effort of man to explain things to himself, as religion represents man's effort to believe, and thus get along without any scientific explanation.

The history of philosophy written by George Lewes, husband of George Eliot, is easy and pleasant to read, and sufficiently, although not perfectly, accurate.

While reading all other books, make it a point to read Shakespeare for at least fifteen minutes every day. Other books feed different parts of the mind. Shakespeare feeds the entire brain.

Read, a little at a time and changing from one book to another, the following books:

BACON'S ESSAYS. He was one of the world's three greatest thinkers. He died in disgrace, which shows that intellect is sometimes apart from character.

Read the essays of Montaigne and the maxims of La Rochefoucauld. At the same time, although some readers find it rather hard, read slowly Montesquieu's "Spirit of Laws." Keep the last three books by you and read them intermittently in the course of a year. You will find in Montesquieu the history of man's struggle to attain justice. In Montaigne you will admire solid wisdom and keen satire. The brilliant Duke of La Rochefoucauld will show you how to use language and wit most brilliantly.

If you want to know something about education for your children's sake, read Herbert Spencer's book on "Education," and Rousseau's "Emile." Add to these, if you are industrious, works on education by Froebel and Pestalozzi. But Spencer and Rousseau are enough for the average parent.

To make you think, enable you to judge the events of today and think intelligently about the future in the light of the past, read these admirable books:

Buckle's "History of Civilization in England," Lecky's "History of European Morals," and Guizot's "History of Civilization." You will find it difficult to buy the last named, but get it at a public library.

Such books as these should be read with an encyclopedia at hand and frequently consulted. Never read and pass on without understanding what you have read or knowing about the important characters mentioned. To read books without knowing what you read is like swallowing food whole, it does no good and causes indigestion.

If you want especially to learn how to write, try this short course:

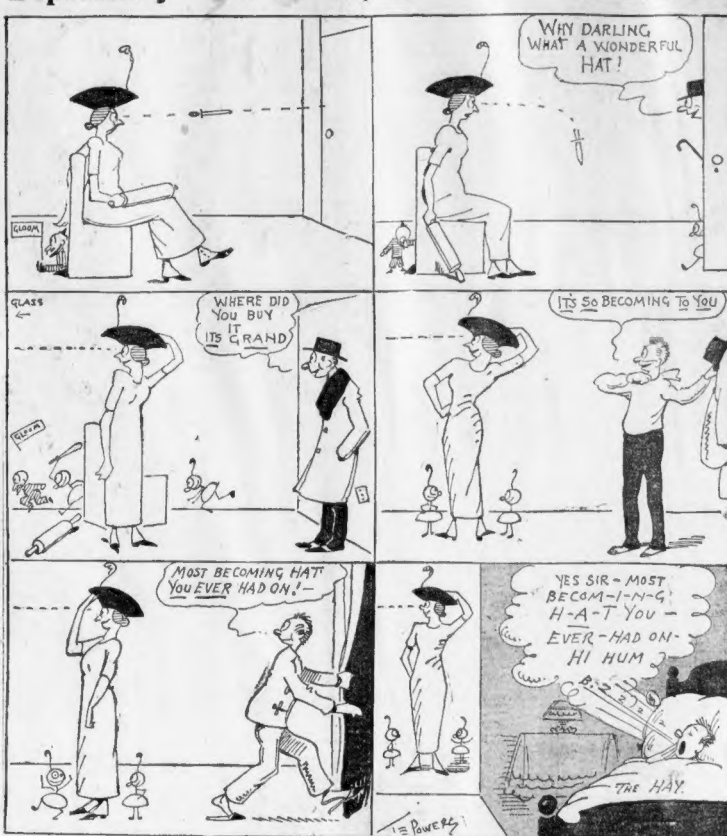

"The Fables of La Fontaine"—for clear expression of simple thought.

Bernard's "Sentimental Journey," the best English prose.

Homor's "Odyssey." It will cure you of any fancy admiration for fancy writing.

Letters to the Editor

Professions Not Enough

Editor Boston American:
Mr. Dufour was recently quoted as saying that "present professions of friendship, no matter how sincere they may be, are no guarantee for the future."

He is undoubtedly to have had reference to France, but the import of his remark applies equally to Great Britain.

I regard it as a duty incumbent on me as an American to offer you, and through you to Mr. Hearst, my sincerest gratitude for standing as you have stood on guard in the interests of our country.

HENRY HANSON.

Disillusioned

Editor Boston American:
Conversing with many people I find that, from the start, most of them, while wishing for disarmament, were skeptical that real progress would be made.

Later developments have convinced most people that the call for the Armament Conference was really a cloak for a new alliance, to take the place of the British League of Nations, but screened by another name.

The country can expect no help from either of the two old parties.

VALUE OF BACKGROUND

One young man is indignant because his would-be mother-in-law, if he could get the girl, told him that she would not let her daughter marry a man who had no "background."

He thought and still thinks that the remark and the intent back of it is unfair, because he is a well meaning fellow but limited in experience.

The girl had been brought up in a home of traditions. Her mother and records had been kept for centuries of each member of the numerous family and had been known and discussed pro and con by the families for benefit of the younger generation.

Strange as it may seem to this young man, there is a large personal benefit in the known pitfalls and experiences with observed results in the happiness of a family old enough to have traditions.

Boys, do not blame the mothers, but begin building your character now.

Plant for Others to Reap

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

RUSSIA is the despair and the inspiration of humanity.

The suffering from famine is beyond description. Tens of thousands are sure to die this winter from hunger and privation. And millions of Russians will be devastated, physically and spiritually, for years to come.

And yet, facing such a winter, hosts of them greet the unseen with a cheer, as if were. Their attitude is remarkable.

Early in October, a message from the Volga region said that though they were in a starving condition, the peasants were planting grain, many of them knowing they would never live to see it sprout.

There's dauntlessness for you, and moral courage, and the heroism of peace!

Such an exhibition of spiritual strength serves to give that country a genuine claim upon its destiny, little Russia, for this proclaims the deathless spirit of the human race and fairly makes visible the soul.

How fitting characteristic of our common human nature at its best is that courageous attitude! up there's the kind of aristocracy in which our democracy may well glory.

Conquer Pessimism

Such happenings conquer pessimism and renew our hope in humanity. They thrill our hearts and kindle our imagination and stimulate our pride in just being human. They have that quality of common heroism which attracts and inspires.

This is a sort of Spiritual Futurism which has become part of the essence of our practical religion.

Each of us must learn to make the future an inspiration and a motive for conduct. There will be deep satisfactions come to us from the thought that our creative influence outlives us.

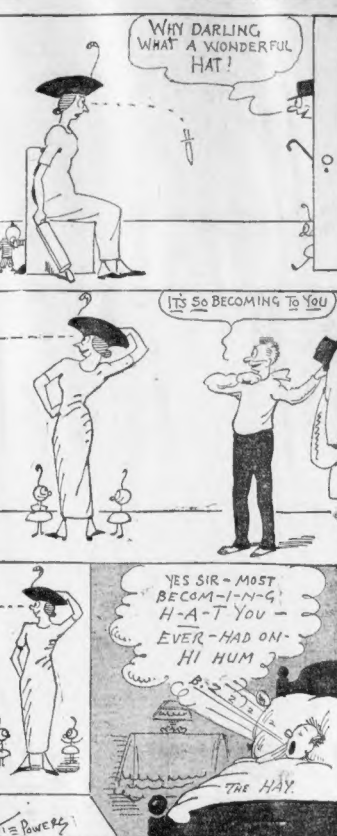

And so we live in lives made better by our presence.

Already our human nature gives rich promises of the general development of this spiritual futurism. It is an enlightened self-interest extended far beyond one's self. It is the most effective blending of self-interest with altruism.

Such futurism makes all time one's province and takes all humanity into one's partnership.

Consider the futuristic joy of planting an oak, an elm, a poplar, a pine, or a flowering shrub in conjunction with the mere telling and selling of fresh which others have planted. This is surely a hint

300,000 Volts to Fight Cancer

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

THERE is real romance in the X-ray and electro-therapeutic department of the Cancer Hospital at Fulham, London.

For the purpose is a powerful and magnificently equipped machine for fighting the most malignant foe to which the human frame is heir.

The application of modern cancer therapy to the treatment of cancer requires electrical currents of enormous strength.

The X-ray and electro-therapeutic department of the Cancer Hospital at Fulham, London, is a fine example of the application of modern cancer therapy to the treatment of cancer.
